WEDNESDAY EVENING, NOVEMB. 3.

POINT D'ALENCON LACE .-- It is estimated queen of lace. It is made entirely by hand with a fine needle on a parchment pattern, in small pieces, which are afterward united by invisible seams. The firmness and solidity of texture are remarkable. Horse hair is often ATTORNEY and COUNSELLOR AT LAW introduced along the edge to give firmuess. Although the workmanship of this lace has always been of great beau y, the designs in the order specimens were seidem copied from ua ture. This circumstance gives a marked advantage to the face of Brussels, which represented flowers and other natural designs with a high degree of accuracy. The defect, however, has disappeared to the point d'Aleucon of recent manufacture; as the Paris Exposition of 1867 were specimens containing admirable copies of natural flowers, tetermixed with grasses and feras. Owing to its elaborate construction, this face is soldom seen in large pieces. A dress made of point d'Alencon, the production of Bayeux, consisting of two flounces and trimmings, was exhibited at the Exposition of 1867, the price of which was 85,1000 frames. It required forty women seven years to complete it. - Appletons'.
